MANY ARE STRANDED.

Under Immigration Laws Prince Will Be Fined $2 for Each Man Left.

From the Marconi wireless station at Babylon, L. I., a final message was received from Prince Louis reiterating his thanks at his cordial welcome in New York and expressing regret at his departure.

Arrison, gunner's mate on H. M. S. Drake, hung over the side and gave backward with a reminiscent, slightly bleared eye, upon the sky-scorers, disappearing into mistiness behind him. And he wept the salty tear of regret into the salty sea.

"Adoo, Noo Y'k," he said, with a gesture that nearly pulled him overboard, "as h'off we sail for the bloody barren rocks of Gibraltar—beg pardon, Ribgillar—a last adoo to the right little, tight little island of Manhattan. Tuckiest little island never did see! 'Wen I'll think of 'er' ten days, my bloomah' boomah' fills to overboard (hic) with fond regrets. Adoo, Noo Y'k, adoo."

And from the Prince himself down to the humblest wiper-off of brasswork in all his fleet the sentiments of Gunner's Mate Arrison were being expressed in various fashions.

With the cross of St. George waving a parti-colored farewell from every peak, the six cruisers of the Prince-Admiral, Louis of Battenberg, moved down North River bound for the Mediterranean. As they passed the chop of the channel off Governor's Island, a good-by salute of thirteen guns boomed out from the flagship Drake. Naval ethics did not call for such a salute. It was simply the Prince's sailorman way of telling us through the medium of black powder, how much he had enjoyed his little-les-than-a-fortnight in local waters.

Last Formal Calls.

Until he upped anchor and went away from here on the turn of the forenoon gun His Highness kept busy—as busy as he had been ever since he struck this port. He arose at his apartments in the Netherlands at 8 o'clock, bathed and breakfasted. As he left the table Col. Robert M. Thompson called to pay his respects. Col. Thompson only stayed a few minutes.

Then the Prince saw Manager W. H. Whitaker, of the hotel, and the newspaper men in his drawing-room and thanked them for courtesies shown during his visit.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BENNING'S RACE TRACK, D. C., Nov. 20.—Washington race-goers had a taste of winter racing this afternoon. Snow was falling when the early regulars started for the track, but the snow did not last long, though at one time it threatened to fall in quantity enough to cover the track. There was an excellent attendance just the same. Washington people are overcoming their prejudices against weather conditions and now take in the races rain or shine.

The card was interesting this afternoon because the fields were well balanced and promised the keenest kind of sport. There were no stakes on the card, but there was a step-ladder and this interested local people more than the flat races. The track was a bit slow from the rains, and most of the riders took to the outside of the course, which made time slow in the various races.

INSURANCE FIGHT STIRS ROOSEVELT

Will Act in Effort of States to Abolish Graft in Big Companies.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 20.—According to State Insurance Commissioner O'Brien's report to Gov. Johnson, made to-day on Mr. O'Brien's return from a trip to New York and Washington in connection with the troubles of the big life insurance companies. President Roosevelt may be the chief arbiter in a co-operative effort of all the States of the Union to compel the large life insurance companies whose troubles are now being aired in New York to put their business on a safer and more economical basis.

Mr. O'Brien went East early last week under orders of Gov. Johnson to look into the insurance situation. Gov. Johnson has been deluged with requests from policy-holders in the Northwest to act in the matter. He gave Mr. O'Brien a letter of introduction to President Roosevelt. On Saturday Mr. O'Brien had a twenty-minute conference with President Roosevelt.

The result of this conference was reported to Gov. Johnson to-day. He reported that during the short time allotted to him by the President, he outlined his plan of action, which was to call a meeting either in New York or Washington, following the completion of the investigation now in progress in New York, of all the State insurance commissioners of the country, also the Governors and Attorney-Generals, if necessary.

This meeting was to evolve if necessary a demand for reorganization of all the important life insurance companies, but more particularly the placing of the affairs of those companies on a safer basis.

When Mr. O'Brien had stated his plan, he said: "Now, Mr. President, there will be a committee to carry out our plans, and we need a head. Will you help us?"

"I most emphatically will," was the answer of the President, according to Mr. O'Brien's report to the Governor. "I will be glad to help you in any way I can."

Mr. O'Brien carried this news from Washington to St. Paul without saying a word to anybody, and would not have allowed it to become public now had not Gov. Johnson seen the importance of the matter and directed Mr. O'Brien to make a detailed statement to the press.

RAFFLES HAD WOMEN'S HELP IN BURGLARIES

One Alleged to Have Aided Smalley in Raid and One Hid Loot.

BOOTY IS RECOVERED.

Mrs. Lord Says Society Man Asked Her to Keep Silver for Him.

BELIEVED HIM HONEST.

Had Visited Him in Germantown, Where Police Say He Had Woman Accomplice.

One of the startling developments that followed the arrest of Alfred Porch Smalley, college graduate and a social favorite in Elizabeth, Clayton, Bayonne and other New Jersey towns, who is charged with being the mysterious "Friday-night Burglar" of Germantown, Pa., is the fact that a quantity of his plunder was found in the trunk of Mrs. Lillian Ford, of Elizabeth, by her husband, Lewis O. Ford, a well-to-do merchant of the town.

Mr. Ford admitted to an Evening World reporter to-day that he had found a quantity of silverware and fine jewelry in his wife's trunk after he had learned of the arrest of Smalley. Mrs. Ford explained, said her husband, that Smalley had asked her to take care of the valuables for him, though he had not told her how it came into his possession.

No "Bunny," Says Husband.

"Though I had no idea this man Smalley was a burglar," said Mr. Ford, "I knew my wife was visiting him in Germantown. My suspicions had been aroused for some time and I was watching developments closely. I had engaged Lawyer Samuel Schleimer to collect evidence to form the basis of a divorce action and papers are now being drawn in preparation for the suit."

"After Smalley's arrest I searched in my wife's trunk and came across this silverware and jewelry. I questioned my wife and she told me she had got it from Smalley, but denied that she had any idea of his being a burglar. She was in no way implicated in the thefts. I turned the silverware over to the police, who also questioned my wife and accepted her story of how it came into her possession."

Woman Disappears.

The Fords lived in a fine house on East Broad street. The family has been prominent in Elizabeth for generations, and it was during Smalley's social career in that city that he met Mrs. Ford. Mrs. Ford has now left town and her husband says that he never expects to lay eyes on her again.

Smalley's home was in the village of Clayton, where lived his young wife and her two pretty children, and he was in the employ of Swift & Co., in Philadelphia, at a salary of $50 a week. "I have been his custom to go to Philadelphia on Saturdays to be with his wife and children," returning to Philadelphia on the following Monday.

All of the burglaries committed in Germantown have been on Friday night. The robberies became so frequent on those nights that the robber became known as "the Friday-night burglar." The entire detective force of Philadelphia was placed on the mysterious thefts, but without result.

Woman Aided Robber.

The arrest of Smalley occurred in Williamsport, Pa., on Wednesday last, but it was of such importance, thought the police, that they kept the facts secret. His arrest followed the investigation into the robbery of the home of Dr. Frederick Moore, of the village of Clayton, who was a warm personal friend of Smalley. It was shown that Smalley was at his home on the night of the robbery. He had been called from Philadelphia by the death of his mother-in-law. He attended the funeral and went home with his wife. That night Dr. Moore's home was entered and looted.

Carried Burglar's Kit.

When taken to the police station a complete kit of burglar's tools and a loaded revolver were found on Smalley. He was then taken to Philadelphia, where he was put through every severe degree known to the police.

According to the police, Smalley confessed that for the past six years he has been living a Jekyll-Hyde existence. He was the disguised, trusted business man in the daytime, and the daring professional burglar at night.

Smalley was held in jail in Philadelphia, awaiting extradition papers from New Jersey on the charge of robbing Dr. Moore's home, and the police made no entry of the arrest. A despatch received from Philadelphia to-day says that Smalley, when questioned regarding his home life, broke down and confessed to having a second wife in New York City. The name of this alleged second wife was not given.

SLEUTHS FIND NO CLUE TO STUDENT WHO IS MISSING

Percy Kuttroff, of Princeton, Nineteen Years Old, Whose Father Is Wealthy, Has Not Been Seen by His Friends Since Sept. 27.

POLICE ASKED TO AID IN THE SEARCH FOR HIM

Mother of the Young Man Died Recently and He Has Been Much Depressed—Father Heartbroken Over Loss of Wife and Son's Disappearance.

Percy Kuttroff, a Princeton student and the son of a wealthy family, dropped out of sight in this city on Sept. 27 last. After a search that has been carried on ever since then by his father, the Pinkertons, in whose hands the mysterious case has been placed, to-day appealed to the police to send out a general alarm for the boy. During the week this alarm will be repeated in all the large cities of the country as far west as San Francisco while circulars will be sent broadcast the world over.

PERCY KUTTROFF, PRINCETON STUDENT, WHO IS MISSING

Kuttroff is only nineteen years old. His mother died a few months since, and from that day down to Sept. 17 he seemed to lose a grip on himself. It was impossible for his father to arouse his interest in anything, and at the university his disposition to brood became marked.

The father of young Kuttroff is the head of the big dye manufacturing firm of Kuttroff & Pickard, at No. 129 Duane street. The disappearance of the lad, coupled with the recent death of Mrs. Kuttroff, has about prostrated the father.

The Pinkertons said to-day that they were under the impression that Kuttroff was not far from New York. He had no money to go far and none of the sources to which he would have gone for funds has received an appeal from him.

The last trace of young Kuttroff ends in the Grand Central station. He was seen there on the day he disappeared, carrying a yellow leather dress suit-case bearing the initials, "P. K. N. Y." He wore a light gray suit, a dark gray cravat and coat and in the suit-case was a brand new black cheviot suit. The only thing of value that he had was an open faced silver watch, with either a silver chain or black silk rib containing a red stone.

Kuttroff is a good sized lad. He weighs 160 pounds and is 5 feet 10 inches tall. He is inclined to be stocky. He is fair, with blonde hair, which he parts low on the left side. His eyes are blue and his nose is prominent. The father of the missing boy offers a large reward for information which will lead to the discovery of his whereabouts.

"CURSE CHARITY!" CRY LONDON'S POOR

Thousands Parade, Carrying Red Flags and Demanding Work.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—There was another "poverty parade" in the streets of London this afternoon. Some five to six thousand unemployed men and a sprinkling of women marched along the Thames embankment to Hyde Park, where they listened to speeches and adopted resolutions condemning charity as a cure for lack of employment and demanding the summoning of Parliament to initiate works of national utility.

Red flags were seen and banners bearing such devices as "Curse Your Charity, We Want Work!" and "There is a Limit to Human Endurance" indicated the temper of the processionists.

The march, however, was quite orderly, and the strong force of police on duty had little to do.

BERNHARDT MAKES FAST RUN TO WEST.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20.—The special train carrying Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt from New York to Chicago arrived here on Cleveland to Toledo, was covered in one hour and 45 minutes.

The special, it is expected, will arrive in Chicago, where the Bernhardt company will open to-night, at about 4:45 P. M.

KILLED HERSELF ON MACKAY ESTATE

Wife of One of Millionaire's Men Fires Fatal Shot After Quarrel.

ROSLYN, L. I., Nov. 20.—Mrs. Hannah Chelsky, thirty years old, the wife of a teamster employed by Clarence H. Mackay at Harbor Hill, shot herself to-day with a revolver and expired instantly.

The pair lived with their three children on the Mackay estate at Harbor Hill. This morning they quarreled for some reason not known and at 8 o'clock the husband left the house for his day's work. An hour later the report of a revolver was heard in the woman's room and one of the children, on running there, found Mrs. Chelsky lying on the floor.

A doctor was called, who pronounced the woman dead. She had shot herself in the head.

Coroner Rensen took charge of the case.

Order to Canadian Cadets to Look Older Not Relished.

Yale's Ticket Sale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20.—The Yale football management has figured out that 25,000 tickets to Saturday's game were sold, or seven hundred less than the seating capacity of the stands. Yale has sold 25,000 of the total number, and Princeton sold 5,000. The other tickets were sold at the field before the game.
